Hollinshead Concert Co. Will Present Rare Attraction Under Auspices of The Local Red Cross.

Redferne Hollinshead. Canada's Leading Tenor.

Harold Hollinshead. Eminent Baritone and Character Performer.

Here is what the Nelson News has to say of the Hollinshead Concert Company, who are to appear under the auspices of the Blairmore branch of the Red Cross Society at the Blairmore opera house on Tuesday night next:

"The work of the three artists, Redferne Hollinshead, who is known as Canada's greatest tenor; his brother, Harold Hollinshead, a baritone of exceptional merit; and Gerald Moore, the youthful and clever English pianist and accompanist, was received with much enthusiasm and won repeated applause from the audience at the opera house last night.

Redferne Hollinshead possesses a voice of splendid quality and the varied program affords much scope for his wide range and dramatic interpretation. Harold Hollinshead is a most versatile artist, combining vocal work with dramatic settings and instrumentalization. Gerald Moore shows remarkable talent for so young a man, and performed to perfection the dual role of soloist and accompanist.

At the expiration of their present tour the artists will go to France, where they will spend some months entertaining the troops in the trenches.

The following programme was rendered: Duet, "The Fisherman," Gaby's.

by Redferne and Harold Hollinshead. Balade in G minor, Chopin, Gerald Moore. Aria, "Spirit Gentil," from "La Favorita," Donizetti, by Redferne Hollinshead. Duet, "Rive Robert et Sicily," Longfellow, by Harold Hollinshead. (a) St. Omer, J. Elie, Henelt; (b) L'Alphonse No. 11, Lister, by Gerald Moore. (a) "Oh, Tion Billyway Harvest Field," Bachmanoff, (b) "Where'er You Walk," Handel, by Redferne Hollinshead. Selected duets, by Harold Hollinshead. Local Committee of Victory War Loan

Following a visit to the Pass Camps of Mr. Hornesbrook, deputy organizer, a mass meeting of citizens of The Pass was held on Tuesday evening, at the Connaught hotel, for the purpose of organizing a local committee to look after the Victory War Loan. The meeting was fully representative of Bellevue, Hillcrest, Frank, Coleman and Blairmore.

Mr. Hornesbrook at length described the objects of his mission, and the work to be expected of the central committee of The Pass district, afterwards the election of district chairman and secretary, and of district executive took place. Mr. D. E. S. Whitehead, of Coleman, and Mr. J. L. Smith, of Blairmore, were the unanimous choice of the meeting for the offices of district chairman and secretary, respectively, while the following were chosen as captains of canvassing teams: J. Brooks, Bellevue; A. M. Morrison, Coleman, and W. H. Chappell, Jr., Blairmore. The selection of captains for Hillcrest and Frank was left with the district chairman and secretary.

In connection with the "Victory War Loan," the minister of finance states that Canada will require $300,000,000 a year as long as the war lasts. In order to get this amount everyone in the country who possibly can should subscribe to the loan, which comprises the safest and best investment yet offered. The Canadian people have not subscribed as liberally to war loans as they should. There were under 40,000 subscribers to the last Canadian war loan, whereas in order to compare with the United States we should have at least 250,000 subscribers to this Victory loan, and if the Canadian people would subscribe as freely as they did in Great Britain to their Victory loan, Canada would have one million subscribers, or in other words, one in eight of our population, which would mean about one thousand subscribers from this end of the Crow's Nest Pass.

Canada's new Victory war loan will bear 5 1/2 per cent. interest and have three maturities of five, ten and twenty years. You can take your choice and the bonds will be as low as $50, affording everybody an opportunity of investing. Public

Two More Pass Soldiers Return

Privates Henry Raymond, son of Mrs. H. Alie, and Joseph Kidd, son of Mrs. E. Kidd, arrived home from overseas on Saturday morning last. The former has been suffering somewhat from neuritis, necessitating his return. The latter has been a hospital patient in France and England ever since last May, when he lost his left eye through a shrapnel wound received while in action. Owing to very few being aware of the date of their return home, there was but a small audience at the station to greet them on arrival. Private Raymond went overseas with the 113th Lethbridge Trench Battalion, but was drafted into the 16th for service in France.

Huguet-Stephenson Nuptials

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Blairmore, on Saturday last, by which Miss Georgette Huguet became the wife of Isaac Stephenson, the popular West Canadian Collieries Co.'s smithy. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. T. Young, of Frank. The happy couple left on the Sunday morning train for the west, returning Monday night to take up their residence in Blairmore.

The Need For

Reinforcements

Ottawa, Oct. 25.—All Canadians should understand thoroughly the kind of military organization which the Allies depend on Canada to maintain overseas. Since news stories in the press mostly always recount the activities of the fighting men, the public at home is apt to overlook the essential work done by the many thousands of men behind the lines on whose energy and devotion to duty depends the success of those in the trenches.

Behind the Canadian lines in France, for instance, there are Canadian soldiers engaged in forestry corps, railway corps, engineering battalions, labor battalions, railroad supply detachments, salvage companies, field butchers, field bakers, depot units of supply, reserve parks, casualty clearing stations, hospitals both stationary and general, hospitals and labor.

atories, dental corps, mobile veterinary sections, veterinary hospitals, ordnance corps, army pay corps, training establishments, headquarters, offices, camps, etc. In all there are over twenty-five different and necessary branches of the military organization to be maintained back of the lines by Canadian soldiers.

In England Canadian troops, numbering at present upwards of 100,000, include reserves for all the many services in France, awaiting call, as well as the sick and wounded, men in various stages of physical fitness, and those engaged in necessary storage, transportation, forestry, headquarters and other activities. Sufficient reserves for certain essential branches of the service in France are not available in England now. The situation threatens to impose too heavy a burden upon the Canadians now at the front. This is the need for early reinforcements.

THE PROPER WAY TO USE COPENHAGEN CHEWING TOBACCO

Copenhagen Chewing Tobacco is entirely different from the ordinary "plug" or "fine cut". It is made of the best, old, rich, high flavored tobacco.

Being in small grains, it imparts its strength and flavor more freely and fully than tobacco in the usual form. For this reason, Copenhagen is not chewed; but is placed in the mouth between the lower lip and the gum. A small pinch of it is necessary to thoroughly satisfy, and those who are using "Copenhagen" for the first time, should take care to use only a small pinch, otherwise "Copenhagen" will be thought to have too much tobacco strength.

Should Use Fish

Substitution of Fish to Save Meats Is Recommended

The campaign to substitute fish to save meats has been so successful that fifteen additional motor cars are to be used for transporting Atlantic fish to central Canada. Arrangements for fish extra service were made at a special meeting between the fish commission and representatives of the railways and fish producers.

The new arrangements include increased service through special trains, when necessary from the westward to interior points. The increased service will make possible a much wider distribution of fish and will insure the arrival of the fish at their destinations in good condition.

While substitution of fish for meat is a comparatively new thing in Canada, made necessary by the imperative demand to conserve meats for export to the Allies, its growth has been remarkable, and the need for stabilized markets in interior points that an adequate and steady supply of fish might be depended upon, made the new arrangements imperative.

Immature Potatoes Are Better for Seed

Experiments Prove They Yield Better Hill Selections

Potatoes which have not fully matured give better yields than fully matured seed. This has been proved by experiments conducted at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph for the past five years. The practice of planting immature potatoes is quite common in England.

The farmers of this country should follow the same practice and should combine it with hill selection. When the potato vines are beginning to ripen, the most vigorous hills can easily be noted. Vigorous tops above ground usually mark a good yield of potatoes underground. The vigorous hills should be dug at the time the selection is made, providing it is late enough in the autumn to insure the potatoes keeping well until planting time next spring. When the potatoes in a field have particularly strong tops, are of good size and yield well, they should be kept for seed in hills which do not yield satisfactorily, however, the potatoes should be used for cooking and not saved for seed. An examination of the field at this time of the year will demonstrate that some hills have resisted bugs, disease and drought better than others, and that the yield of certain hills is higher than others. Hills which have resisted drought better than others will produce a better crop than those from which the seed was taken or from the planting of small potatoes, as is often the case—E.C.N.

LIFT YOUR CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS

How to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts off without pain

Let folks step on your feet hereafter; wear shoes a size smaller if you like, for corns will never again be your torment. Spikes of pain, you, according to this Cincinnati authority.

Called a corn, that a few drops of a drug called frezone, applied directly on a tender, aching corn, instantly relieve the pain, and the corn, root and all, lifts right off.

This drug dries at once and simply shrivels up the corn or callus without even irritating the surrounding tissue. A small bottle of frezone obtained at any drug store will cost very little but will positively remove the hard corn of callus from one's feet.

Your drug store, hasn't stocked this new drug yet, tell him to get a small bottle of frezone for you from his wholesale drug house.

Lightning Rods

From Damage

Fires resulting from lightning are of frequent occurrence, especially in the rural districts. Many barns and barns are destroyed. Many farmers are realizing the protection afforded by lightning rods. A properly installed lightning rod system rarely fails to protect the property. The reason for this has come to be recognized that nearly all insurance companies give a preferential rate to risks thus secured.

In a survey of 400 farms carried out by the commission of Ontario in 1916, it was found that 43 per cent, or 175, of the farmers had their barns protected by lightning rods, while but 47 per cent, or 19, had their homes thus protected.

The local value and construction of lightning rods are fully described in Ontario Department of Agriculture, Bulletin No. 229, "Lightning Rods," by Prof. W. H. Day, Ontario Agricultural College.

Spain's Pride Is Hurt

The Spanish government has sent a note to the Portuguese ministry of foreign affairs, demanding that the Seculo, an important newspaper in Portugal, be called to court for publishing an article from its special correspondent in Madrid, entitled "The Last Bourbon," in which it was foretold that the king of Spain would be the last sovereign of his line.

Food Control in U. S.

Licensing of the Sugar Trade Is the Next Step

The licensing of all manufacturers, refiners and importers of sugar has been officially determined upon by President Wilson as the next step in the control of staple food commodities.

The critical situation in the sugar markets, anticipated during the fall months, makes prompt action necessary, and the proclamation of the president will require the licensing, by October 1, of all foreign sugar corporations and associations engaged in the business either of importing sugar, or manufacturing sugar from sugar cane or beets, or of refining sugar, or of manufacturing sugar syrups or molasses.

The issuance of licenses, the promulgation of rules and regulations for the government of licensees, and general control of the sugar industry will rest with the four administrative agencies of the federal government and has been already generally discussed and approved by the leading men in the industry. The new service of the industry will serve as a step toward the regulation of prices by the prevention of speculation and the securing of equitable distribution. The sugar problem being one of distribution as much as of supply, the solution is to be brought about by voluntary agreements with the traders, the essential principle of which have been already settled.

Canada and U. S. Will Protect Birds

Farmers and Sportsmen to Benefit Greatly by New International Measures

The international convention for the protection of migratory birds in Canada and the United States, ratified at Dombiville last December, is the most important and far-reaching measure ever taken in the history of bird protection. It affords the best means of ensuring not only a cessation of the decrease in the numbers of insect-eating and game birds, but also the protection of the most important and far-reaching measure ever taken in the history of bird protection. It affords the best means of ensuring not only a cessation of the decrease in the numbers of insect-eating and game birds, but also the protection of the most important and far-reaching measure ever taken in the history of bird protection.

In fulfillment of its obligations under the convention, the Canadian government introduced a Migratory Birds Convention Bill to carry out the provisions of the convention, and this measure is now before the houses of parliament. As soon as assent is given to the bill, regulations will be promulgated fixing closed seasons.

In the case of insectivorous birds, the simple laws now in force to take their eggs at any time of the year. The closed seasons on ducks begin in late August, and on geese and one-half months, and the dates of opening and closing will be fixed in accordance with local conditions and after consultation with the proper authorities in the different provinces. On the shore birds, such as the cranes, swans, curlew and most of the shore birds, with the exception of the waterfowl, no special protection will be provided.

The wood duck and eider duck will also be given special protection. Where the numbers of migratory birds are so small that special regulations will also be made to prohibit the shipment of migratory birds for sale or export. Supply Is Short and Europe's Demand Will Be Tremendous Twenty dollars a hundred for live hogs in Chicago and very near that figure on the Canadian markets—these are the facts which are being met by the Canadian farmer's cattle are selling around $11. Never before has the Canadian farmer's cattle been so high, and although feed prices are high, they are more than offset by those for live hogs.

The hog supply of the United States is 3,000,000 less than five years ago, recently said Dr. J. G. Minard, president of the American live stock association. "In Canada we have such a shortage of hogs that it is impossible to supply the demands from our own hogs, and large quantities of American pork have been shipped into the country. I feel satisfied that hogs, provided fair play is exercised on the market, will maintain a high figure for many years to come."

As for beef cattle he stated: "There is an extraordinary shortage of cattle all over the world. There is an extraordinary shortage of cattle all over the world. There is an extraordinary shortage of cattle all over the world."

After the war, not only Germany, Austria, Italy and Belgium, but every other country in Europe will have been drained of its supply of cattle and there will be a tremendous demand and the prices will soar far beyond any figure that any of us have ever seen."

WILL NEED OUR WHOLE STRENGTH

OUR CAUSE WILL NOT TRIUMPH AUTOMATICALLY

To Believe That Democracy Must in the Nature of Things
Triumph is a Dangerous Illusion, and if Every Effort is Not

"Viewed from the political angle of vision the war is clearly a conflict, perhaps the final conflict, between two great principles, the principle of democracy and the principle of autocracy. It is the battle of the French revolution fought over again, the battle of the American revolution fought over again, the battle between antagonists far more formidable to one another. In the course of the war, the principle of democracy developed their strength and at the same time displayed their weakness. The principle of autocracy has also won great victories, in themselves and in the eyes of another, in the pursuit of its ideal aim. The principle of democracy at a moment when, for want of an ideal aim, the principle of autocracy is silent and stundered in the face of the multitude of petty quarrels. In this sense, the principle of democracy has the strength. On the other hand it has shown the weakness which comes from the lack of a principle, the lack of guiding policies and above all from mistrust of its great men. And yet it has been able to overcome all difficulties and misfortunes arising from these causes, but has held on to its principle, and has not been able to say its weakness has served intentionally to deepen the impression of its weakness. On the other hand, the same double record. In the German model, at all events, it has displayed the weakness which comes from the pursuit of its aim. Per contra it has proved itself to be thoroughly capable of the most heroic sacrifices as a principle of mingled strength and violence in the life of nations. It has been able to overcome every lasting mistrust.

"Clearly it is an attempt to make the war an effective test of the war of democracy unless we consider at the same time its parallel effects on autocracy. It is a battle fought in the mind together. It is the common task of each of the parties to look at the other from their own point of view, with the request that they do not distort the question exhibit the facts as far simpler than they really are. We must not let ourselves be misled by phenomena on our own side. We are an immense consolidation of forces, we are a principle of the defense of their principle and from this we draw the conclusion that our principle is the principle that has the right to rule the world.

The Associated Press is able to give approximately the figures representing the man power of German troops in the war at the present time together with the casualties, as follows:

Field formations on the various fronts, employed on lines of communication and stationed in the interior able task of turning up their Bibles, and the fighting men in the desert environments which are closely connected with some of the most abhorred and heinous crimes of the Jewish and Christian religions. General Sir Archibald Murray has been leading the forces of the British Empire, his army over the arid wastes of the Sinai desert to the borders of the Holy Land, and he has been over the task, as did his illustrious predecessor, but he has had the advantage of modern machinery, roads, constructed for the purpose, and he did not strike water out of the rocks, but he had long lines of pipes from the nearest reservoirs, and he had the advantage of great advantage over the famous Jewish law-giver that his army was not composed of slaves, but of free men, and he had no mutiny, no revolting and rebelling, and that there were no women and children, or any other persons to molest him in the wilderness of sin. Today our army's bivouacs are before the gates of the Holy Land, and he has the doors of the gates of the city and the two posts and went away from the city, and he carried them upon his shoulders, and carried them up to the top of the hill that he had to take.

Crossing over the border into Palestine and leaving behind the Arabs, since they were a "dead weight," the vision of a land of smiling crops and smiling people, of olive orchards, as it was in olden days, greets the eye. The Arab freed from the burden of the past, the Arab in the race and civilization, is pictured by the imagination enjoying peace and pleasure in the life of the future, and acquiring the culture evolved in the West. Judging by our recent progress, the Arab will not long have a vision from becoming an actuality. The only thing that would keep the Arab from this vision is the delay, and arrest progress, would be the return of the Turk to the region of the East. The Arab has been during the time the Ottoman had ruled over the country he has refused to accept the Turkish domination. The people that he conquered, though they professed the same religion that he professed, they did not remain the victor and they the ruler. The small discrepancy in the figures is accounted for by the omission of the 1916 class.

The total male resources of Germany since the beginning of hostilities have been estimated at 1,500,000 up to 1920, number about 1,600,000. Those called up numbers 700,000.

Those called up numbers counted as follows: The remainder of the 1916 class of 1916, 150,000; the 1917 class of 1917, 450,000; men employed in agriculture, 500,000; industries, 500,000; untrained, 500,000; men employed in Germany 200,000; men entering the army for physical disability, 218,000.

Recruits of the 1920 class cannot be called up until they attain the 17th birthday.

There are countless miles of the finest fertile land in that portion of the world, and the soil is rich. Agriculture has languished, however, and as a consequence, the richest of soils has become a barren waste, infested with man and beast alike. Recently I rode far inland along the coast, and then on to the ancient caravan route leading from the coast to the Euphrates, a famous road this, steeping with history and romance. Many armies marched along this road, and the weary, weary Israelites, grim featured Assyrians, mail-clad legions from Rome and the Crusades, and the Ottoman army led by Baron Kressenstein, and that tyrant of Syria and Palestine, the Kaiser, have all trodden the fate of this army and how, after a half century, the road still leads to the same fate. In February, 1915, they were routed by a large force of British and French troops, and the Ottoman Youngturbans. There are scores of graves along this time-worn pathway, and the bones of some 100,000 Syrians, Ottomans and Arabs, who, after a blazing desert heat, were hurled to the sea, to the nations is to the affect that the most direct road to peace lies through the heart of the East. It is an endeavor after peace in the name of religion. I respect and honor the nations attending its inception, but I am dismayed. Not only the reasons given for it, but the less its timeliness. When religion is the cause, it is hard to speak with what I have termed the inexorable simplicity of its ancient faith. I am not a religious man, but I believe that Germany is as well prepared in the spirit and temper of mind as any nation in the world. Meanwhile, I see no other possible cause for this war, and I am sure that in this respect, Germany is no less than that which Lincoln was as a nation. I am sure that the cause is not for us, in circumstances like those which have surrounded the world in the following out of which we reached in due time the goal of peace. I am sure that the cause is not for charity; for all; with firmness in its right, as God gives us to see it, and with the strength of the world work we are in, to do all which men and women can do for a just and lasting peace."

A celebration without intoxicating beverages was unthinkable of a few years ago by a certain class of individuals, but today they apparently have forgotten all about the days of the revelers are beginning to take it upon themselves to understand that a holiday can be made one of enjoyment without the brawls of the olden days and the accompanying dark brown taste of the olden days.

The Arabs are happy to be relieved of the burden of the British, but do not give any trouble to the authorities set over them. They are finding a way to get the British out of the country, receiving from the British army large sums of money for the purchase of arms for their private use. They are now in by-day bands. Daily, long lines of camels laden with arms and ammunition are sent out for to the army bases on the coast. The countless acts of what feverish activity is going on in the desert is provision the Ottoman army. This year are now passing into the hands of the Arabs. There are

An Advancing Democracy

American Writer Believes that War Has Its Compensations

It is not untenable that this struggle may be the greatest step toward the realization of a new era of mankind. We have become more or less familiar with different types of economic and political government control. We are already sensitive to the injustice inherent in our present economic system. We are ready for a decided advance of democracy toward a real and responsible participation of the people in both rights and duties are equalized. The present conditions are not only unjust but they are also impossible to the days of sixty-one. Our railways are passing into the hands of the state. The manufacture of steel is no longer an individual enterprise. Food supply is being taken over by the state. The need of governmental direction which the prophets have seen and felt is becoming more and more apparent. In three months we have gone farther toward the elimination of the trust than in the last thirty years, and can anyone believe that we can ever return to the situation of a few years ago? We are now assured of war necessity social evolution is accelerated, and if this be the case, the economic struggle and the struggle for survival will appear surely war has its compensations.

Again, nothing in the history of mankind is doing more for the development of the international mind than the development of the national mind. Most of us think individually and in terms of our personal welfare. Most of us think in terms of the local and the locality to which we belong. Some of us can think in terms of the community, but the international mind is largely a development of the Civil war. Then for the first time we began to think in terms of the United States in the singular rather than in the plural. The problem, therefore, cannot be completely solved until we can think in terms of the world.

terms of humanism, Christianity can be regarded as a universal religion. A Christ who is limited by national boundaries is no Christ at all. The Christ who is limited by more than any other factor in history is bringing the nations together and is the Christ of the future. Socialism and nationalism in the interest of Christianity are the two evils of the age, an internationalism in which alone lies the hope of the future. When the United States has stood in the front of the world for the freedom of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Rumania and France and Italy and Russia we shall find that the word "foreigner" is a meaningless word.

This is the right spirit. The public must put trust in the navy, and help it to develop its full potential in the economy in the use of national resources. They must not underestimate the danger of the submarine as a menace, nor think that we are nearing the end of its ravages. There must be a little more effective remedy for it.

The navy was never at a higher point in its history than at this time. It has full confidence in its chiefs afloat and ashore, but there is a lack of confidence in the public. Let it have every engine it requires in abundance, and then by the use of the submarine force will be brought under stronger control.—London Daily News.

Don't Miss The Point

There is a man in this part of the world who represents, to our way of thinking, a pretty good average of human nature. Whenever the preacher in his church delivers a very hot sermon against some special kind of sin, this man gets enthusiastic and goes around to the rectory to tell the preacher what a fine sermon it was. Then he goes home and repeats it to his brother, and they talk over the points and the people the sermon hit the hardest. But this particular man never sees when the sermon hits him.

Early next month the biggest public campaign ever put on in Canada will be specially to get subscriptions for the first Canadian war loan, the Victory Loan. The thing people in this district must bear in mind is: that the appeals are directed to each and every one of them. It is not merely the well-off men and women who are being asked to invest. It is everybody. The little sermons which will be "preached" in the advertising should not be taken as hints to the well-to-do people only. Every man and woman should watch for these advertisements and start now to see how the necessary money to buy either a fifty or a hundred or a five hundred or a thousand dollar bond.

In the United States there were about 4 subscribers to the first American loan out of every 100 persons. They only received 15%. In Canada for the last war loan there were only about 41,000 subscribers or only 4 in every 700. Yet in a similar situation was much higher—in the Victory Bonds that will probably be issued to yield about 5%.

The first thing anyone should do, in our opinion, is to get rid of the idea that there is any sacrifice involved in investing in this loan. It is true that the patriotic spirit is appealed to and it is equally true that a prompt and generous response is expected on that ground. But the new war loan is a straightforward business proposition: safe, profitable and convenient.

Every man and woman who has as much as fifty dollars to spare should own one of these bonds, and not only that, but should help to show others the worth of these bonds by recommending them everywhere. The readers of this paper are among them on thrifty, promptness and public spirit in the Dominion. When the subscription to the Victory Loan are added up from the various districts and sub districts we expect them to show that this part of the great Dominion has been true to its traditions and just to its opportunities.

The West is that included in the Redbridge Irrigation District which was originally opened by the Alberta Irrigation and Irrigation Company and is now controlled by the Canadian Pacific Railway. Doubtless there are many other districts where water can be artificially applied to the soil and where this will be done when its advantage is fully realized. The following article from the Beacon, Mail of October 11th is a striking tribute to the value of irrigation in that district. Says the Mail:

"We have received from all parts of the country and from many districts in the States contributions as to the value of the irrigation project of the C.P.R."

"We have made a careful investigation of the crops harvested this year in the Gen Colony, which is perhaps the largest tract yet settled of all the C.P.R. tracts in this district and as a result of our enquiries we may state without any reservation that the value of the irrigation in this district and during this season has been proven to the hilt."

"There are many variations in the report, but the difference represents the difference in the amount of work put on the land."

"Irrigation applied intelligently this year has resulted in big yields of grain and garden produce."

"One of the Gen farmers, W. J. Carter, from registered Marquis Seed Wheat raised a crop of 45 bushels to the acre, and from a winter wheat raised 60 bushels to the acre."

"There are of course exceptionally big crops for such a season as this, and it shows the tremendous value of the irrigation project, not only to the farmer, but to the country at large."

"But more clearly does this record show that with irrigation much more intensive farming is possible, for the grain crop was harvested from land which had yielded large crops of alfalfa the previous year, while the root crop was taken from land which had grown wheat the previous year."

"The German Balance Sheet"

(From The New York Outlook.)

Three years ago Germany began this war for the conquest of Middle Europe. What has she gained? What has this cost her?

She has gained by her arms the territories of Belgium, Luxembourg, Serbia, a small but rich section of northern France, and parts of Lithuania, Poland, and Rumania—a total of a little less than 204,000 square miles.

She has lost: Except for an insignificant corner in southern Africa, all her colonies, over a million square miles.

Practically all her shipping not bottled up in Bremen and Hamburg, a loss estimated in tonnage as 3,600,000.

Of the flower of her youth, over 2,000,000.

In cash, nearly $20,000,000,000 to be added to her national debt.

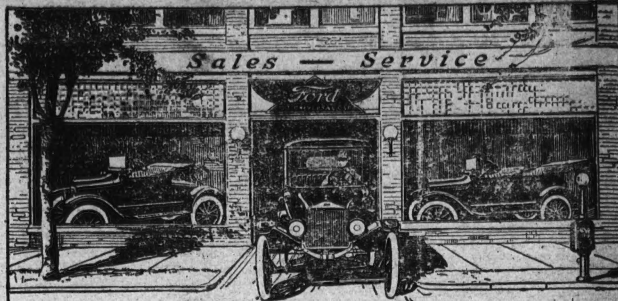

Before the war, though unpopular as a people, Germany was honored among nations for her intellectual scholarship and her industrial efficiency. She has lost irretrievably this respect and won in its place the mingled hate and contempt of the civilized world. Scarcely a considerable neutral nation is left except those whose safety compels their neutrality.

No one thinks Germany can retain her gains. No one imagines that she can recover her losses. It is not strange that some of the German people are seriously questioning among themselves the question whether it is not time to change their business managers.

A daring hold-up was committed here on Saturday night last, when a masked bandit entered the west market of P. Burns & Co., and at the point of a gun, ordered the clerk to appropriate the large pay-day receipts. Fred Hansen and Joe Robin, the two employees, were approached by the man who entered the store about 9 o'clock. Two shots were fired from the gun, but before the second shot Hansen managed to secure the bulk of bills near by, so that the raider could get away with but an insignificant sum. An alarm was made, but up to the present no clue as to the identity of the individual has been found. At first it was thought that blank shells were used by the raider, but there is evidence to the contrary.

The restoration of Bellevue is rapidly taking place, but building operations were somewhat tied up owing to the heavy wind storm of Saturday last, which twisted several of the frames which had only just been placed in position. Judging from the work now going on in Bellevue and the size and style of the buildings under construction, the town is to be bigger and better than ever. The new P. Burns store is nearing completion, and will be much larger and better equipped than the building recently destroyed. The Bellevue Cafe is about completed and business is already being conducted in the new stand. Work on the new Horton Cafe has been tied up owing to damage done by Saturday's windstorm. The F. M. Burnett site was sold on Monday, and the purchaser intends erecting a large store and hall on one lot, while a spacious theatre, to be in keeping with the times, will take position near by. This new theatre will be of the most modern type and will have a floor space of about seventy by twenty five feet. The ground floor of the adjoining building will be utilized as a store, while overhead will be located a spacious hall, the floor space of which will be 57x25 feet. The new hall will have a hardwood floor and will be one of the finest dancing emporiums in the Crow's Nest Pass. Plans for the hall have been drawn up by the trustees of the L.O.O.F., who are to be lessees, and whose new quarters will be located in Bellevue Lodge, which has the reputation of being the most progressive for the size of the community in the Province of Alberta. Cole's theatre is also well under way, and is a large and modern designed structure. The new residence of W. P. Williams suffered somewhat from the windstorm of Saturday, but the building is now fast taking on a finished appearance. Excavation

Cereals Sold In Bulk After Jan. 1

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—The food controller has extended by one month the periods during which manufacturers and wholesalers and retailers, respectively, are to be permitted to sell small packages of cereals, cereal products, flour or other foods that are the product of wheat, oats, barley, rye, rice, peas, beans, buckwheat, Indian corn or lentils. Manufacturers and wholesalers are now to cease selling original packages containing less than twenty pounds net, on and after December 1, 1917. For retail merchants the order becomes effective on and after January 1, 1918.

"We are trying to reduce the cost of distribution of foods to the lowest possible margin without upsetting the whole economic machinery." Such was the statement made to the Canadian press today by Hon. W. J. Hanna, food controller, when interviewed in regard to the restrictions on the sale of package foods.

"The principal reason for the ordinance restricting the sale of certain package foods is that substitutes for wheat should be made available to the public as cheaply as possible in order to increase their use."

"We have found that rolled oats and many wheat products when sold in the smallest package often cost over fifty per cent. more than when sold in bulk. People do not seem to realize when buying the common cereals in small packages that a large percentage of the cost is represented in the package and the advertising."

The food controller said if the manufacturers could prove that any specific was a cheap in packages as which sold in bulk he would license its sale in the package form.

Anglican Church

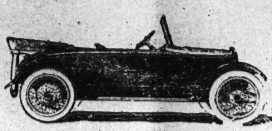

Last Sunday the Lord Bishop of Calgary came to The Pass for the purpose of confirming candidates presented from the towns of Blairmore and Coleman. He preached to a good congregation at 11 a.m., the occasion being observed as the second anniversary of the opening of the present Mission room. He expressed great pleasure at the progress which was being made, and took particular interest in the efforts being put forward to make the present building both useful and beautiful and warmly thanked Mr. Bench (whom he said he had known for a good many years) for his generous donation of the pulpit, and more recently of the altar rails. The Bishop, who has suffered the loss of his son, Captain Pinkney, at the front, dwelt upon the losses and hardships of the present struggle and in a touching and eloquent address gave a message which will undoubtedly prove real help to his hearers. He particularly emphasized the fact that community life is undoubtedly helped by a healthy church life in its midst.

At St. Alban's church at Coleman in the evening the Sacrament of Confirmation was administered, when eight candidates—six from Coleman and two from Blairmore—presented themselves for the laying on of hands. The procession formed into the church, led by Warden H. W. Clark and H. G. Goodvee. The service was most impressive and the memory of this solemn rite will remain long with all who were present. As in Blairmore, His Lordship spoke very encouragingly of the work that was being done and his words to the candidates, for whom the address was principally intended, will not soon be forgotten. An informal reception was afterwards held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Goodvee.

While in Blairmore His Lordship was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wright, and at Coleman of Mr. and Mrs. Goodvee. Service at Blairmore on Sunday, October 28th, at 11 a.m. This Sunday will be observed as Children's Day and an address will be given on the subject, "The Child of God."

Sunday school as usual at 2.30.
